FISH OILS & OMEGAS

Omega-3 and Omega-6 fatty acids are considered one of the "good" fats important for cellular, heart and metabolic health. Eicosapentaenoic acid (EPA) and Docosahexaenoic acid (DHA) are two types of fatty acids that help maintain a healthy heart and circulatory system. Additionally, fish oil also helps maintain triglyceride levels already within a normal range. The FDA has approved the following health claim for Omega-3 Fatty Acids: "Consumption of Omega-3 Fatty Acids may reduce the risk of coronary heart disease. FDA evaluated the data and determined that, although there is scientific evidence supporting the claim, the evidence is not conclusive."

Omega 3 Fish Oil

Research reveals that Omega-3 fatty acids, known as EPA and DHA, help protect and support overall heart health. These acids are found in particularly fatty, cold water fish such as salmon, mackerel and herring, which are found in this supplement. Omega-3 fish oils also help contribute to good blood circulation.

1223-200

Flax Seed Oil

Salmon Oil

1488-120

But superior heart health isn't all. Numerous studies in peer reviewed publications prove that Omega-3 supplements that are high in EPA and DHA can help people with depression, PMS, arthritis and other inflammations, such as migraines. They're also important during pregnancy, nursing and infancy when a baby's eyes, nerves and brain are developing.

Mason's quality Salmon Oil softgels DO NOT contain soybean oil, hydrogenated oils or any form of filler.

Mason guarantees using the finest Salmon Oil from Cold Water Salmon.

VITAMIN D3

Vitamin D "The Sunshine Vitamin" is HOT!

- At the 18th annual meeting and clinical congress for the American Association of Clinical Endocrinologists (AACE) held in May 2009, the consensus was very clear. Dr Neil Binkley noted that the current national recommendations from the Food and Nutrition board of 400 to 600 IUs is simply not enough. Experts recommend somewhere between 1500 to 2600IU daily and it is considered a very safe vitamin.
- Pediatricians recommended 400IU vitamin D dose for children.

Why D3?

Vitamin D comes in two different formulations. Vitamin D2, also called ergocalciferol; and Vitamin D3, also called cholecalciferol.

D2 (synthesized by plants) is a far inferior form of Vitamin D that does not get absorbed into the human body well. This is a phenomenon called bioavailability, or in this case simply Vitamin D Absorption.

D3 is synthesized by humans and is a more potent form. More importantly, it is better absorbed by the human body.

So if you take Vitamin D, make it D3.

1411-60

Whether you just found out or you already knew that your bad cholesterol levels were high, you are concerned and you have good reason to be. We've all heard about the fact that excessive LDL (bad) cholesterol can be an indicator of increased risk of getting heart disease, the leading cause of death in America! When your bad (LDL) cholesterol levels sky rocket, it is no laughing matter. Ignored, this can lead to severe health problems including stroke, kidney damage, diabetes mellitus, and even death. Sadly, statin drugs have the potential for many negative side-effects including fatigue, dizziness, depression, impotence, liver damage, and more. The good news is - Mason offers safe and effective solutions to maintain and regulate normal healthy levels of cholesterol.

532-100

1236-100

Garlic

Garlic may have positive effects in preventing cardiovascular diseases, such as heart attack or stroke. Garlic helps to prevent atherosclerosis through the actions of its sulfur compounds and its ability to reduce the fatty substances, such as cholesterol, found in the bloodstream. It promotes the regression of fatty deposits in blood vessels, a major cause of atherosclerosis, and can even help reverse arterial blockages caused by the collection of plaque. Garlic significantly lowers blood levels of triglycerides which have been associated with an increased risk of heart attack. It also works as an immune system stimulant which helps the body fight bacterial, viral and fungal infections.

What you may not know about statins...

In addition to the common side effects such as headaches, nausea and fever, other statin side effects can be much more serious. Two of the most troubling statin side effects include extreme muscle pain and muscle disease (statin induced myopathy), and serious liver problems. Anyone with liver disease or prior liver issues probably should not take statin medications, and all of the statin manufacturers warn against it. Much research has shown that statin side effects could also include sexual dysfunction and performance problems, as well as memory loss, personality changes and irritability.

Other concerns regarding prescription cholesterol lowering drugs:

- 1) While cholesterol lowering drugs do lower LDL (bad) cholesterol, they have limited effect on HDL (good) cholesterol, and no effect on triglycerides (fats), an equally important heart disease risk indicator.
- 2) Statin medications decrease your body's supply of CoEnzyme Q10 (Co Q-10), which is an essential nutrient for heart strength and function.

DIABETES

Diabetes is a major source of misery for an estimated sixteen million Americans. It is a leading cause of death in the U.S.—more than 400,000 Americans died from it last year. Compared to average adults, diabetics are two to four times more likely to die from heart disease. Diabetics also suffer from significantly higher rates of kidney disease, stroke, eye ailments (diabetes is the leading cause of new cases of blindness among adults), nerve disease, slow wound healing, and poor circulation requiring amputation of limbs. Immune support is important throughout the year, but particularly during times of seasonal change. A healthy immune system can help your body fight cell-damaging free radicals in your body. Free radicals—which are produced from things like car exhaust, smoking, even your own body—can contribute to the premature aging of cells. Immune support can come from several types of supplements, particularly antioxidants that can help you structure a personal healthy aging plan according to your needs.

Vitamin C

Vitamin C promotes antioxidant protection and is one of the leading vitamins for immune support. At the 60th Anniversary Meeting of the American Academy of Allergy, Asthma, and Immunology (AAAAI), it was reported that 12 healthy subjects who took one gram of vitamin C a day for two weeks showed a boosted immune system response during that time. What's more, when they looked at responses in four of the patients, they found that in two of them, the response to vitamin C took place within five hours. According to the researchers this might mean that taking a vitamin C tablet at the first sign of a cold could achieve an effect quickly enough to ward off that cold.

Antioxidants are substances that may protect cells from the damage caused by unstable molecules known as free radicals. Coenzyme Q-10 (also known as Co Q-10) is an antioxidant with a variety of benefits. Co Q-10 has been shown to support the cardiovascular system, cognitive function and nervous system health. It also plays a role in helping the body convert food to energy.

Did you know?

If you're taking Lipitor, Zocor, Crestor or other Cholesterol Lowering Medications you NEED to supplement with Co Q-10! A known effect of Cholesterol-Lowering Statin Drugs is the body's depletion of Coenzyme Q-10, the antioxidant vital for a Healthy Heart.

It also supports the internal organs and is even present in teeth. Collagen makes up about 25 percent of the total amount of proteins in the body. Some people refer to collagen as the glue that holds the body together. Without it, the body would, quite literally, fall apart. Often, collagen is discussed in relation to the skin. It works with keratin to provide the skin with strength, flexibility, and resilience. As people age, however, collagen degradation occurs, leading to wrinkles. As such, it is an important substance for those looking for ways to fight the visible effects of aging on the skin.

Consistent use of multivitamins and other key supplements can promote good health and help prevent disease, according to a comprehensive new report released by the Council for Responsible Nutrition (CRN). The report found that ongoing use of multivitamins (preferably with minerals) and other single-nutrient supplements (like calcium or folic acid) demonstrated quantifiable positive impact in areas ranging from strengthening the immune system of highly-vulnerable elderly patients, to drastically reducing the risk of neural tube birth defects such as spina bifida.

Women who consume multivitamins and/or dietary supplements during a weight-loss program may have reduced appetite (Br J Nutr. 2007; (1):1-11). Researchers from Laval University conducted two studies: a comparison of the characteristics between vitamin and/or dietary supplement consumption and non-consumption, and the effects of multivitamin and mineral supplementation during a weight-reducing program. Overall, vitamin and/or dietary supplementation consumption and multivitamin and mineral supplementation had an appetite-related effect on women during a weight-reducing program, although lower body weight and fat was more detectable in men.

Every living cell on this planet depends on minerals for proper functioning and structure. Minerals are needed for the proper composition of body fluids, the formation of blood and bone, the maintenance of healthy nerve function, and the regulation of muscle tone. Minerals are also essential for the proper utilization of vitamins and other nutrients.

Magnesium

Magnesium is an essential mineral needed for Calcium and Potassium absorption and contributes to proper nerve and muscle impulses, formation of bone, carbohydrate metabolism, nervous system and heart health. Magnesium also helps soothe PMS discomforts. Magnesium is also needed for bone formation. Studies have shown that individuals with bone problems need to supplement with more magnesium.

961-100

Chromium

A mineral that plays a key role in carbohydrate and fat metabolism. Chromium also helps fight Cravings and promotes healthy Blood Sugar levels.

Did you know?

Recent studies have shown that people with fibromyalgia have low levels of magnesium in the blood cells. This can contribute to the fatigue experienced in FMS and CFS patients. Magnesium is instrumental to releasing energy to these cells. Magnesium deficiencies are common due to diets high in processed foods. When a deficiency occurs, persons can experience muscle weakness, insomnia, depression-all contributors to a decrease in energy levels. Replacing magnesium and including malic acid to your supplementation can help improve your energy.

Selenium

An antioxidant trace mineral that helps protect cells from free radical damage, especially in the body's organs. Some scientific evidence suggests that consumption of selenium may reduce the risk of certain forms of cancer. However, the FDA has determined that this evidence is limited.

Iron

Iron plays a key role in promoting rich, red blood. It's needed to make hemoglobin, the protein that carries oxygen in the blood. This formula helps maintain healthy levels of hemoglobin in the blood.

Vitamin B

The B vitamins are made up of several essential nutrients that work well together to provide nourishment for the stresses of daily living. This section includes a comprehensive offering of the B Vitamins, available in various forms, so you can choose the right product for your needs.

B-1 (Thiamine Hydrochloride)

Supports energy metabolism & nervous system health.

B-2 (Riboflavin)

Riboflavin (vitamin B2) is manufactured in the body by the intestinal flora and is easily absorbed, although very small quantities are stored, so there is a constant need for this vitamin. It is required by the body to use oxygen and the metabolism of amino acids, fatty acids, and carbohydrates.

B-12 (Cyanocobalamin)

Also available in Sublingual

966-100

762-60

Vitamin B12's main functions are in the formation of red blood cells and the maintenance of a healthy nervous system. Vitamin B12 is an especially important vitamin for maintaining healthy nerve cells. It promotes normal growth and development, helps with certain types of nerve damage, and treats pernicious anemia.

B Complex

Vitamin B complex is a supplemental combination of B vitamins which are essential to the body. The vitamin B-complex group includes B1 (thiamin), B2 (riboflavin), B3 (niacin and niacinamide), B6 (pyridoxine), B12 (cobalamin), folic acid or folate, pantothenic acid, biotin, choline, inositol, and PABA (para-aminobenzoic acid).

Vitamin B complex is involved in an extremely large and important group of metabolic functions in the human body, such as energy production, Interco versions of one substance to another, detoxification, nerve transmission, blood formation, synthesis of proteins and fats, the production of steroid hormones, the maintenance of blood sugar levels, the maintenance of appetite, the toning of muscles, etc.

Niacin/Niacinamide

Niacin helps maintain healthy functions of the nervous system, digestive system, skin & energy. Niacinamide is an amine form of niacin and is important in promoting a healthy nervous system, skin, and gastrointestinal functioning.

Biotin 800mcg / 5000mcg

The primary role of biotin is in the metabolism of fats, proteins and carbohydrates. Biotin supplements may improve thin, splitting, or brittle toe and fingernails as well as hair health.

Vitamin C

Vitamin C is one of nature's most important antioxidants. Every day, researchers find new indications for vitamin C as a major factor of good health. It has antioxidant benefits and promotes healthy gums and capillaries due to bioflavonoids. It is vital to the body for the production of collagen - a connective material in body tissues, and it helps absorb iron. The human body does not manufacture or store vitamin C. It is used up rapidly at times of stress, excitement, physical activity and even extreme temperature changes.

629-100

716-100

Getting the suggested 200mg to 1,000mg a day from food is not enough. One 8oz glass of orange juice from concentrate has only 100mg of Vitamin C.

Vitamin E

After many years of research, Vitamin E has been recognized as the #1 antioxidant in our diet. Unfortunately, many processed foods have been severely depleted of Vitamin E. New studies show that Vitamin E promotes healthy heart function. Vitamin E is fat-soluble and should be taken with a meal that contains a little fat for best absorption.

504-100

505-100

765-100

Folic Acid

Folic acid plays an essential role in human growth and development, in particular cell division and DNA synthesis. It is involved in every bodily function that requires cell division.

Folic acid is indicated for the prevention of some birth defects and appears to confer significant protection against cardiovascular disease and some forms of cancer. Pregnant women have an increased need for folic acid. Folic acid is crucial to support the rapid growth of the placenta and fetus and may reduce the risk of having a child with brain or spinal cord birth defects.

Vitamin D

See Page 6

Vitamin K

Vitamin K is necessary for the formation of prothrombin, which is required for normal blood clotting. Vitamin K is also a great companion to Calcium and Vitamin D supplements.

Beyond Bones

Colon cancer is the second leading cause of cancer related death in the U.S. and the third most common malignancy in US women. Much research is being done on the prevention of colon polyps, which is thought to be the first step in the development of colon and rectal cancer. A large study by Dr. J. Baron revealed that calcium supplementation was associated with a significant reduction in the rate of recurrent colon and rectal polyps. This study used 1200 milligrams of calcium over a four-year period and found a 15% reduction in polyp recurrence. This reduction was seen within the first year of the study.

In a second well controlled intervention study, Dr. Baron found reason for continued optimism regarding calcium and colon cancer prevention. In this study, 803 men and women who had a prior colon polyp were given calcium (1200 milligrams) or placebo and followed for 4 years. The investigators measured levels of vitamin D in the study participants and found that the benefit of calcium on polyp prevention was seen in individuals with higher levels of vitamin D.

In a new survey study by the American Cancer Society, they found an association between higher calcium intake and a lower risk of colon cancer for both men and women, while vitamin D might help cut risk in men. The association was strongest in people who took supplements, rather than getting these nutrients from foods. McCullough and her colleagues studied more than 60,000 men and more than 66,000 women who were already participating in an American Cancer Society study of nutrition and cancer prevention. The participants were all between 50 and 74-years old when they enrolled in the study in 1992 and 1993. People who took calcium supplements had about a 30% lower risk of developing colon cancer than people who did not take supplements.
